this insightful handbook delves into public policy evaluation in the global south drawing on in depth case studies it analyzes the complex interplay of historical political economic and social factors that shape evaluation practices in africa asia latin america and the middle east this volume brings together studies of the small number of previously established states that have retained and or restored democracy despite in many cases formidable economic social or political challenges it seeks to establish common themes whether or not they appear to fit a grand casual theory it is after all the very adaptability of democratic systems that characterises their persistence durability and resilience

this book engages with the concerns the rising phenomenon of arbitrations between private and public actors raises for principles of constitutional law including democracy the rule of law and the protection of fundamental rights it analyses how party appointed one off arbitral tribunals determine the delineation of private rights and public interests within a transnational legal environment and provides a framework that aligns this activity with constitutional values featuring 20 chapters dealing with almost 40 jurisdictions from different corners of the world the book examines how domestic legal systems and legal practice approach the involvement of public entities as parties to arbitration agreements and arbitration proceedings to what extent the constitutional legal frameworks involved problematize private public arbitration as a constitutional concern and how different domestic legal systems ensure that private public arbitration conforms to and avoids undermining the public interest the chapters analyse inter alia whether the governing domestic law treats private public arbitration differently from commercial arbitration between private parties to what extent domestic law permits such arbitrations what regulatory frameworks domestic law sets up and what control mechanisms domestic law establishes in order to ensure that the public interest is safeguarded when public entities agree to have disputes resolved through arbitration rather than in domestic courts at a time when the issue of human rights in africa is making many advances human rights sourcebook and manual for africa introduces easy to use jurisprudence the first section covers key principles and human rights norms which are detailed in straightforward language the second section is devoted to the death penalty detailing the relevant provisions from both international and regional instruments and offering a comparative commentary as to how the principles and relevant rights relate to the death penalty the third section summarizes key case law from international regional and domestic african courts and tribunals the case summaries detail the facts and decisions and include a headnote of relevant concepts for quick reference the fourth section focuses on thirteen african countries yet the reports are a useful comparative resource for all countries from conducting the research and compiling the material for this final section it is apparent that nothing like this has been attempted before in africa much of the work emanates from primary research and investigation conducted by local research teams in the individual countries investigative research includes visiting prisons physically counting the individuals on death row and interviewing the detainees to obtain their age and the length of time they had been on death row
